

Complete State-of-the-Art Molded-Pulp Packaging Equipment Available Via Two-Day Online Auction

June 4, 2026

BETHESDA, Md., June 04, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Liquidity Services (NASDAQ: LQDT), a leading global commerce company powering the circular economy, announced the upcoming online auction of state-of-the-art molded-pulp packaging equipment from Rev 1 Packaging, a global manufacturer of sustainable molded fiber containers. The sale will be conducted via the AllSurplus marketplace in partnership with Dean Machinery International.

Late-model molded-pulp packaging equipment from global manufacturer Rev 1 Packaging will be available across a two-day online auction format taking place June 23 and June 24, hosted by Liquidity Services in partnership with Dean Machinery. The sale features rarely available, late-model container manufacturing cells located in Fort Worth, TX. Rev 1 Packaging produces compostable and recyclable molded fiber containers used across food packaging, electronics, and pharmaceutical applications.

"This auction provides a strong opportunity for manufacturers to acquire late-model molded pulp production equipment in a clean-room environment, enabling them to quickly establish or expand sustainable packaging capabilities," said Chris Register, Liquidity Services Vice President, Capital Assets Group.

The machinery and equipment at Rev 1 includes multiple late model (2021–2022) pulp forming cells in a "clean-room" environment, including:

- Meishi pulp formers, hot presses, and trimming systems
- ABB robots for wet and dry processing
- Complete quality control laboratory equipment
- Extensive spare tooling
- Pulping, air handling, material handling, and plant support systems

This opportunity provides manufacturers with immediate access to molded pulp production capabilities. To view and bid on available equipment, visit Day 1 (June 23) and Day 2 (June 24) auction events on AllSurplus. For more about Dean Machinery International, visit deanmachinery.com.
